Sheepdog Program

Our use of the term "Sheepdog" is a Metaphor for continuing practical training to face plausible real-world challenges, including social and financial unrest, hazardous events, disasters, conflict, while maintaining a high state of readiness.

"Sheepdog" practice is for men and women who want to be able to protect themselves and their family decisively, and when needed, to also be ready to defend others. The people who are involved in the Sheepdog movement come from many professions and all walks of life.

Firearm safety is an important issue for anyone who owns a gun. However, for Sheepdogs, practical real-world practice is also essential. It is for this reason that we are offering these regular practice sessions for Sheepdogs, in addition to our formal training schedule.

Since firearm proficiency is a perishable skill; training and regular practice is fundamental to being prepared. In fact, regular practice is so important that each month we will sponsor our Sheepdog practice sessions. Participants only pay for consumables and their range fee.

"When seconds count, the police are only minutes away." In our modern world, personal responsibility and self-reliance are essential.

Offered monthly and scheduled by reservation, Sheepdog firearms self-defense practice sessions are instructor driven, and each session lasts for 3 hours. This practice opportunity is designed to help you maintain firearm-defense proficiency in a training environment that is real-world practical.

Rather than just going to an ordinary indoor gun range and punching holes in a paper target, 'Sheepdog' practice sessions focus on real-world deadly force encounters. In other words, they are intensely practical.

Moreover, each monthly session is different. As a result, the practice is invigorating and doesn't feel repetitive. Importantly and by design, this intentional variety helps you become more rounded in your skill development.

What remains the same each month is that the practice session always incorporates tactical movement, the use of cover, engaging multiple targets, and shoot-don't-shoot scenarios. Advanced skill development, and mental-muscle-memory basics, is always blended, into each practice session.

Additional topics covered may include Bug-Out-Bag essentials, medical supplies to carry, Every Day Carry items, flashlight options, shotgun options, and low light shooting tactics.

Sheepdogs train and they practice. Regularly.

Those who register for the "Sheepdog" group have the opportunity to take part in monthly practice sessions. Directed by our instructors, these sessions are designed to be real-world practical. Each month the 3 hour session gives you the opportunity to hone a different aspect of your firearm self-defense skills, urban survival skills, and home defense tactics.

Each participant must...Have a valid AZ CCW or have successfully graduated from a firearm defensive handgun course.

Cost: These practice sessions are offered at $25 which covers range fees, targets used and insurances. Participants supply their own guns, and ammunition.

When: Scheduled by appointment, with sessions offered one day each month. These are generally during the morning or afternoon on a Saturday or Sunday during the month. Those who register for Sheepdog practice sessions will receive a calendar of dates and available times.

Where: Our private Firearm-Defense Training Ranges are located in Northeast Mesa and the West Side. Directions and specifics on the locations are only provided to registered Sheepdogs.

Contact us: Log on to our newly designed website and click on the Sheepdog program tab. Fill out the interest form and we will contact you with the date and time of the next Sheepdog Range Practice.
